Information Sharing Policy

Reviewed and adopted by the Board of Trustees: 12th of September 2024

Next Review Date: Q3 2025

1. Introduction

1.1 Sharing information across professional boundaries can bring many advantages, not least to ensure effective co-ordination. There is a need for a joint approach in the creation of robust frameworks within which information can be shared effectively, lawfully and securely.

1.2 Information sharing does, of course, present risks and these need to be managed correctly. The Trust needs to ensure that Information Sharing is carried out fairly and lawfully and in adherence with the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and Data Protection Act 2018.

2. Purpose and Scope

2.1 This policy details the overarching framework specifically for the sharing of personal information, or “personal data” (defined as, any information relating to an identified or identifiable natural person (‘data subject’); an identifiable natural person is one who can be identified, directly or indirectly. In particular by reference to an identifier such as a name, an identification number, location data, an online identifier or to one or more factors specific to the physical, physiological, genetic, mental, economic, cultural or social identity of that natural person), shared between the Trust and other partners, public, private or voluntary sector organisations. The policy focuses on the requirements for sharing “personal data” about service users in a safe and appropriate way.

2.2 This document is applicable to all staff (including but not limited to employees, contractors, agency workers, consultants, and interims) who have been permitted access by the Trust to use or access Trust data on its behalf.

3. What is Information Sharing?

3.1 Information sharing means the disclosure of information from one or more organisation to a third-party organisation or organisations, or the sharing of information internally.

3.2 Information sharing can take the form of:

- A reciprocal exchange of information
- Several organisations pooling information and making it available to each other
- Several organisations pooling information and making it available to a third party or parties
- Exceptional, one-off disclosures of information in unexpected or in emergency situations

4. Deciding to share personal data

4.1 Personal data sharing is not an automatic assumption and there must be:

- A clear objective or set of objectives as to what the sharing is meant to achieve
- A legal basis
- Some form of active communication where the individual knowingly indicates consent
- A valid information sharing agreement in place unless exceptional circumstances apply

4.2 Information sharing must only be done in adherence with the General Data Protection Regulation and Data Protection Act 2018 in line with the Information Commissioner's Data Sharing Code of Practice.

4.3 Sharing information without an individual's knowledge is permitted for:

- The prevention or detection of crime
- The apprehension or prosecution of offenders; or
- The assessment or collection of tax or duty

5. Benefits of Information Sharing Agreements

5.1 Information Sharing Agreements provide the following benefits:

- Helps to promote information sharing – by setting standards agreed by all parties an information sharing agreement (ISA) will help remove barriers which often hinder effective information sharing. It will allow the Trust to deliver high quality integrated services and make the Trust more effective in the way the Trust work.
- Inspiring public trust by helping to ensure compliance with legislation and guidance – organisations who sign up to an ISA are confirming that they will comply with the procedures which accompany it whenever information is shared and that they will abide by the monitoring arrangements set within it. This not only ensures compliance with legislation but also improves the public's confidence that legally required safeguards are in place and information will be correctly processed and protected.
- Avoiding duplication of agreements and guidance – this policy and any associated ISA's provides detailed guidance around all information sharing arrangements. This means that there is no need to duplicate information when drafting specific agreements. By signing up to the ISA, organisations agree to ensure that all agreements established between organisations sharing information for a common purpose are consistent with the agreed ISA and template agreement.
- Transparency – demonstrates the willingness of signatory organisations to be transparent in their information sharing practices.

- Reduced reputational risk – by ensuring the Trust have the correct processes in place the Trust limit inappropriate or insecure sharing of personal data.
- Increases understanding – with clear information sharing agreements people will gain a better understanding of knowing when it is or isn't acceptable to share information. This also minimises the risk of a breach occurring and possible enforcement action from the ICO.
- Details the specific arrangements – who the Trust needs to share information with for a common purpose or project. This is important as it provides all parties with clear instructions and information as to how the sharing will work and what the legal restrictions are.
- Formalise the decision taken to share and ensure that all Data Protection requirements have been accounted for.

6. Data Protection Impact Assessments (DPIA's)

6.1 It is good practice to carry out a data protection impact assessment before entering any data sharing arrangement. This will assist in identifying and reducing the privacy risks. A DPIA enables the Trust to systematically and thoroughly analyse how a particular project or system will affect the privacy of the individuals involved and identify and mitigate risks at an early stage.

6.2 A DPIA should be considered as part of any information sharing agreement.

7. Process

7.1 All ISAs should be drafted using the Trust's standard Information Sharing Agreement Template and approved by the DPO (Appendix 1). The DPO should be consulted when it is believed an ISA is required.

7.2 You must ensure when entering any regular information sharing arrangements, that an Information Sharing Agreement is in place. It must

- State a clear and lawful legal basis to allow the sharing to take place,
- Is agreed by all parties
- Is approved by the DPO.

8. Policy Review

8.1 This policy will be reviewed by the DPO. In addition, changes to legislation, codes of practice or commissioner advice may trigger interim reviews.

9.1 This Information Sharing policy is linked to the Trusts:
